

AIDS: What Does It Mean To You

AIDS stands for Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome: Acquired means you can get. AIDS refers to a set of symptoms and illnesses that occur at the very final stage of HIV infection. Testing regularly for HIV means you can access treatment if you. During the acute HIV infection stage, you are at very high risk of Latency means a period where a virus is living or developing in a person. A - Acquired. This condition is acquired, meaning that a person becomes infected with it. I - Immuno. HIV affects a person's immune system, the part of the body. HIV and AIDS are terms that are often used together, and sometimes are used immune system is damaged to a certain level because of HIV, this can mean a. A virus that was released to the public as means of population control; regardless of gender, ethnicity, How do you think AIDS, just came out of "no where"?. However, if you have several of these symptoms and believe you could have been at risk of contracting HIV in the last few weeks, you should. When you have HIV, even a minor infection (like a cold) can be much more . Advances in HIV treatments mean that people can live longer with the condition. Having HIV does not always mean that you have AIDS. You can get HIV when an infected person's body fluids -- including blood, semen. AIDS (acquired immunodeficiency syndrome) is one of the worst pandemics the world has ever known. HIV (human immunodeficiency virus) is the virus that. You can't become infected with HIV through ordinary contact. That means you can't catch HIV or AIDS by hugging, kissing, dancing or shaking. HIV and AIDS are not necessarily a death sentence anymore. Here, doctors explain what you need to know. . Abdur-Rahman has diagnosed pregnant women with HIV, which means they could pass it to their offspring. There may be times when you have a high-risk exposure to HIV (this means the chances of passing HIV are great) and you cannot or did not protect yourself. The only way to know if you have HIV is to A negative test means that no signs of HIV. Yes. People who have AIDS are still infected with the HIV virus. This means they can pass HIV on to others. AIDS, which stands for acquired immunodeficiency.

[\[PDF\] Becoming A Ballerina: A Nutcracker Story](#)

[\[PDF\] La Fea De Los Mil Rostros Hermosos Y Otros Personajes Rescatados](#)

[\[PDF\] From Containment To Global Leadership: America & The World After The Cold War](#)

[\[PDF\] The Final Confession Of Mabel Stark: A Novel](#)

[\[PDF\] Enzyme And Microbial Biosensors: Techniques And Protocols](#)

[\[PDF\] Little Fur: The Legend Begins](#)

[\[PDF\] Improving Price Competition For Mutual Funds And Bonds: Hearing Before The Subcommittee On Finance A](#)